Get Ottawa out of the way of the Energy Sector

To Prime Minister Justin Trudeau:

Families who make their living in the energy sector are desperate, but they're desperate to get back to work and earn a living – they don't want to depend on temporary bailouts from Ottawa. They need the federal government to stop blocking pipelines, stop passing legislation that undermines Canada's competitiveness and stop the carbon tax.

Instead of offering $1.6 billion in corporate welfare, Canada's energy sector needs Ottawa to get out of the way so they can get back to work.

We the undersigned call on the federal government to get out of the way and let the Canadian energy sector get to work.
